

Tinea barbae is a fungal infection of the beard area. It is caused by dermatophytes, which are fungi that live on keratin. The infection is most common in men who have a beard. The lesions are usually red, inflamed, and itchy. They can also be painful. The infection is usually treated with antifungal medications. In some cases, surgery may be necessary to remove the infected tissue.