

DIAGNOSIS: Amelogenesis imperfecta (AI) is an inherited developmental disorder of the teeth characterized by defects in enamel formation, structure, and appearance. It can affect both the upper and lower arches, and is often associated with other dental and systemic conditions.