

It is caused by bacteria entering the space between the nail and the skin, often due to trauma or prolonged exposure to water without wearing waterproof gloves.